

The BLACK BAG

By Louis Joseph Vance

Copyright, 1908, by the Bobbs-Merrill Co.

None the less he was moved to stand in the tunnel, conscious of the presence of the traveling bag, snug between his feet, as well as of the weight of Calendar's revolver in his pocket, while he stared back along the road.

There was nothing to be seen of their persecutors.

The car continued to crawl. Five minutes dragged tediously. Gradually they drew abreast a tavern standing back a distance from the road, singularly the car rolled up before it and came to a dead and silent halt. Charles, the mechanic, jumping out, ran lightly up the path toward the inn. In the car Brentwick turned again, his eyes curiously bright in the starlight, his forehead quickly furrowed, his voice apologetic.

"It may take a few minutes," he said, "undoubtedly, but I am endeavoring to cover up my own dark doubts. 'My dear,' to the girl, 'if I have brought trouble upon you in this wise I shall ever earn my own forgiveness.'"

"As if you could be blamed!" protested the girl. "You mustn't think of it that way. Fancy, what should we have done without you?"

"I'm afraid I have been very clumsy," sighed Brentwick, "clumsy and clumsy. Kirkwood, do you hear that?"

"Not yet, sir," suggested Brentwick, "later—perhaps we had better get out and go up to the inn. It would be easy there, especially if the girl proves hard to obtain and we are long to wait."

"Should like that," assented the girl. "Get out of my way!"

Kirkwood nodded his approval, and the door and jumped out to her, then picked up the bag followed the pair. Brentwick followed the girl in the car, and the door of the car was closed.

Charles met them, evidently very disturbed. "No petrol to be had here," he announced reluctantly at the landlord will send to the inn, a mile up the road, for some, all have to be patient, I'm afraid."

"Well, get some one to help with the car in from the road," said Brentwick. "We will be waiting of the private parlors."

"Sir, thank you, sir," the girl said, "the door of the car is closed."

"Gentle, gentle, gentle," the girl said, "the door of the car is closed."

"Gentle, gentle, gentle," the girl said, "the door of the car is closed."

"Gentle, gentle, gentle," the girl said, "the door of the car is closed."

"Gentle, gentle, gentle," the girl said, "the door of the car is closed."

"Gentle, gentle, gentle," the girl said, "the door of the car is closed."

"Gentle, gentle, gentle," the girl said, "the door of the car is closed."

"Gentle, gentle, gentle," the girl said, "the door of the car is closed."

"Gentle, gentle, gentle," the girl said, "the door of the car is closed."

"Gentle, gentle, gentle," the girl said, "the door of the car is closed."

"Gentle, gentle, gentle," the girl said, "the door of the car is closed."

"Gentle, gentle, gentle," the girl said, "the door of the car is closed."

"Hang the jewels!" retorted Kirkwood warmly. "What?"

"Sir, who said anything about the jewels?"

As Brentwick spoke Calendar's corpulent figure filled the doorway. Striker's weather worn features loomed over his shoulder, distorted in a cheerful leer.

"As to the jewels," announced the fat adventurer, "I've got a word to say. If you put it to me that way."

He paused on the threshold, partly for dramatic effect, partly for his own satisfaction. In his hand a revolver appeared, poised for immediate use if there were need.

There was none. Brentwick, at his first appearance, had dropped a peremptory hand on Kirkwood's shoulder, forcing the young man back to his seat. At the same time he resumed his own. The girl had not stirred from her seat since the first alarm. She sat as if transfixed with terror, leaning forward with her elbows on the table, her hands tightly clasped, her face, a little blanched, turned to the door. But her scarlet lips were set and firm with inflexible purpose, and her brown eyes met Calendar's with a look level and unflinching. Beyond this she gave no sign of recognition.

Nearest of the four to the adventurers was Charles, the mechanic, paused in affrighted astonishment at sight of the revolver. Calendar, choosing to advance suddenly, poked the muzzle of the weapon fearfully in the man's ribs. "Beat it, Four Eyes," he snapped. "This is your cue to duck! Get out of my way!"

The mechanic jumped as if shot, then hastily retreated to the table, his sallow features working beneath the goggles which had excited the fat adventurer's scorn.

"Come right in, cap'n," Calendar threw over one shoulder. "Come in, shut the door and lock it. Let's all be cozy and have a nice quiet time."

Striker obeyed, with a derisive grimace for Kirkwood.

Calendar, advancing jauntily to a point within a yard of the table, stopped, smiling affably down upon his prospective victims and airily twirling his revolver.

"Good evening, all!" he saluted them blandly. "Dorothy, my child," with assumed concern, "you're looking a little upset. I'm afraid you've been keeping late hours. Little girls must be careful, you know, or they lose the bloom of roses in their cheeks. Mr. Kirkwood, it's a pleasure to meet you again. Permit me to paraphrase your most sound advice and remind you that pistol shots are apt to attract undesirable attention. It wouldn't be wise for you to bring the police about our ears. I believe that in substance such was your sapient counsel to me in the cabin of the Althea, was it not? And you, sir," fixing Brentwick with a cold, unfriendly eye, "you animated fossil, what might your name be?"

"It might be Brentwick," said that gentleman placidly.

"Brentwick, eh? Well, I like a man of spirit. But permit me to advise you."

"Gladly," nodded Brentwick.

"Eh? Don't come a second time between father and daughter. Another man might not be as patient as I, Mr. Brentwick. There's a law in the land, if you don't happen to know it."

"I congratulate you on your success in evening it," observed Brentwick, undisturbed. "And it was considerate of you not to employ it in this instance." Then, with a sharp change of tone, "Come, sir," he demanded, "you have unwarrantably intruded in this room, which I have engaged for my private use. Get through with your business and be off with you."

"All in good time, my antediluvian friend. When I've wound up my business here I'll go—not before. But, just to oblige you, we'll get down to it. Kirkwood, you have a revolver of mine. Be good enough to return it."

"I have it here, under the table," interrupted Brentwick suavely. "Shall I hand it to you?"

"By the muzzle, if you please. Be very careful. This one's loaded, too—apt to explode any minute."

To Kirkwood's intense disgust Brentwick quietly slipped one hand beneath the table and groped for the revolver.

its "p. p." neatly with his finger tips shoved it toward the farther edge. With a grunt of approval Calendar swept the weapon up and into his pocket.

"Any more eruptions?" he inquired briskly, eyes moving alertly from face to face. "No matter. You wouldn't dare use 'em anyway. And I'm about done. Dorothy, my dear, it's high time you returned to your father's protection. Where's that gladstone bag?"

"In my traveling bag," the girl told him in a toneless voice.

"Then you may bring it along. You may also say good night to the kind gentlemen."

CHAPTER XXXI.
DOROTHY did not move. Her pallor grew more intense, and Kirkwood saw her knuckles tighten beneath the gloves; otherwise her mouth seemed to grow more straight and hard.

"Dorothy!" cried the adventurer, with a touch of displeasure. "You heard me?"

"I heard you," she replied a little wearily, more than a little contemptuously. "Don't mind him, please, Mr. Kirkwood," with an appealing gesture, as Kirkwood, unable to contain himself, moved restlessly in his chair, threatening to rise. "Don't say anything. I have no intention whatever of going with this man."

Calendar's features twitched nervously. He chewed a corner of his mustache, fixing the girl with a black stare. "I presume," he remarked, after a moment, with slow deliberation, "you're aware that as your father I am in a position to compel you to accompany me."

"I shall not go with you," iterated Dorothy in a level tone. "You may threaten me, but I shall not go. Mr. Brentwick and Mr. Kirkwood are taking me to friends, who will give me a home until I can find a way to take care of myself. That is all I have to say to you."

COAL DEALERS IN CHICAGO.
Retail Men of Illinois and Wisconsin Hold Annual Meeting.

Chicago, June 30.—Several hundred retail coal dealers, members of the Illinois and Wisconsin association, gathered this morning in the Shero man house and with the song of "Coal, Coal, Coal!" opened their fourteenth annual convention. President H. A. Robinson of Peoria was in the chair and after Walter B. Hoyle had welcomed the association to Chicago, he delivered his annual address.

This afternoon there were papers by Carl Scholz of the Coal Value Mining Company, L. L. Ewing of Peoria and W. L. Abbott and Homer D. Jones of Chicago. Tomorrow the association will take possession of the steamer Theodore Roosevelt and will sail away to Michigan City. All the way over and back the coal men will discuss trade topics and complete their routine business.

INFERNAL MACHINE TO PASTOR.
"Black Hand" Attempts to Blind a Cincinnati Clergyman.

Cincinnati, June 30.—Rev. G. R. Robbins, pastor of the wealthy Lincoln Park Baptist Institutional church, received an infernal machine, accompanied by a note decorated with skull and crossbones and saying he would suffer if he did not stop his talk against the "Black Hand."

The machine was ingeniously constructed from a handkerchief box containing a quantity of black powder, which was to have been exploded by a match ignited by a string spring. The intention was to blind the preacher.

Railroad Casualties Increase.
Washington, June 30.—An increase of 344 in the total of railroad casualties, but a decrease of 65 in the total of persons killed, as compared with the figures for the corresponding quarter last year, is shown for the months of January, February and March, 1909, by Accident Bulletin No. 31, issued by the Interstate commerce commission. During the months named 663 persons were killed and 15,122 were injured.

PRINT PAPER IN A BALLOON.
First Newspaper Issued in the Air Received in Ohio.

Hamilton, O., June 30.—The first newspaper ever printed in a balloon was received in Butler county when a balloon from Dayton passed over the western part of this county. The big was equipped with a corps of newspaper men and a printing press by a Dayton (O.) paper, and as it soared over the town's miniature copies of the paper, printed in the balloon basket, were thrown to the ground.

When the balloon reached Woods station, eight miles east of Hamilton, copies were sent down telling of an exciting experience at Darrown, four miles from Woods, when farmers fired at the balloon with rifles. The balloon was uninjured.

The balloon landed five miles south of North Vernon, Ind.

KANSAS BANK LAW
EFFECTIVE TODAY

Deposit Guaranty Measure Goes Into Effect In The "Sunflower
State".

[SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.]
Topeka, Kan., June 30.—The bank deposit guaranty law passed by the last session of the Kansas legislature goes into effect today. While the law will affect only such banks as elect to comply with it, it is expected that all of the 777 state banks in Kansas will place themselves under its provisions without delay.

The banks, under the new law, are to be partners in a sort of mutual insurance company. They will have to put up a million dollars in state and national securities to guarantee the payment of deposits, and the dues of insurance premiums will be only one-twentieth of one per cent annually.

Briefly stated the law provides for protection to the following classes of deposits. Those that do not bear interest, time certificates payable in less than six months from date, and not extending more than one year, bearing interest not to exceed 3 per cent per annum and on which interest shall accrue at maturity; savings accounts not exceeding in amount $100 to any person and not subject to check upon which the bank has reserved in writing the right to require sixty days' notice of withdrawal, and bearing interest at not to exceed 3 per cent per annum. Deposits which are primarily discounts or money borrowed by the bank, and all deposits otherwise secured, are not guaranteed under the act.

Just what effect the new law is to have on the national banks appears uncertain. The Department of Justice at Washington having decided that the national banks could not participate in the guarantee feature of the Kansas law, the banks themselves have started a movement to organize an insurance company among themselves to insure deposits in expected to be out of the national banks. Especially those in the smaller towns, will decide to denationalize
and become state institutions in order to participate in the guaranty law.

EXPLOSION WRECKS HOLLANDALE STORE

Building and Contents Damaged by Explosion of Gas in the Basement.

[SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.]
Dodgeville, Wis., June 30.—The two-story brick store building and stock at Hollandale, owned by Peter Morgan, was damaged to the amount of $2,000 at 5:45 Friday night by an explosion of gas from a gasoline lighting plant in the basement. Miss Kate Lohan, a clerk, was injured by falling glass when the light was blown out, and Mrs. Deming, who was in the basement trying to light the gas,
was severely burned. Mr. Morgan, proprietor of the store, and his young son were tossed in the air, but were unhurt. Mrs. Morgan was lying sick in bed upstairs, but luckily escaped injury. Mrs. Morgan was born in the town of the first store. Eyewitnesses state that the building was raised from its foundation fully one and one-half feet by the terrific force from below. Registers in the both floors were torn loose.

There were two distinct explosions,
the first only spreading the flames to the front end of the cellar, near the compressor, where the real explosion occurred. Fire broke out immediately, but was gotten under control before it gained any headway.

In the store room counters were piled on top of each other and the groceries scattered and mixed in a chaotic mass. The drygoods and shoes were much better. The furniture in the cellar is a total loss. Bricks in the chimney were thrown thirty feet in the air and the roof was broken in several places.

The cause of the explosion is a mystery as the lighting system is ac-knowledgeed by the undertakers to be the safest system in use today. How the blaze originated is unexplainable, as both men emphatically state that no matches were lighted. A spark or flame from some source was necessary to explode the gas and start the fire which ensued. The storage tank, containing 60 gallons of gasoline and the lighting plant itself was not damaged in any way.

The building will be repaired as soon as the insurance is adjusted. Mr.
Morgan's many friends are deeply sympathetic with him in his misfortune.
Mr. Morgan's burns are very painful, but not of a serious nature. His clothing was wet on fire and his hands and face burned.

AMERICAN PRIEST'S DOUBLE ANNIVERSARY

Baltimore, Md., June 30.—Today was the forty-eighth anniversary of Cardinal Gibbons' ordination to the priesthood and also the twenty-third anniversary of his elevation to the cardinate. His Eminence will, on the twenty-third of next month, reach his seventy-fifth birthday anniversary.
It has been the desire of the Catholic clergy and laity of the Baltimore archdiocese to celebrate the birthday anniversary on an elaborate scale, but owing to the Cardinal's desire to pass the summer quietly it is likely that the celebration will be deferred until next fall.

RACINE TOUGHS GIVE POLICEMAN BEATING

Racine, Wis., June 30.—Policeman
Frank Drought was nearly killed this morning in a fight with three toughs
while attempting to arrest one of them on State street. He has several bad cuts on the head, his ribs were killed
in and his eyes are both blackened.
It appears that Albert Scorsone was drunk and when an effort was made to arrest him his brother and George Johnson, a sailor, turned on the policeman and attacked him unmercifully.
He is now in bed. The men are in jail.

THE OLD SYSTEM

REPUTATION OF PRIMARY IS

MIGHT AVOID CONTESTS

Think That Some Way Should Be Arranged So That Future Disgraceful Contests Would Not Occur

[SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.]
Milwaukee, June 30.—With Republicans of Wisconsin follow the example of the Democrats and hold a state nominating convention in 1910?

A movement has been suggested,
the purpose of which would be to ask State Chairman Edmunds to call a convention. If there seemed to be a disagreement as to it in the party
throughout the state.

It is being urged as a result of the reputation of the senatorial primary by its professed friends, by Republicans who say that there is no longer any surety that primary nominations
will not be repudiated in the future,
the example having now been set and some way should be found to avoid such contests. They say that put candidates to such large expense, whenever the nomination was heavily contested, it is not right that there should be a subsequent large expense for election and such a contest as was precipitated on the senatorship.
They argue that an effort should be made in some way to consolidate party sentiment on state candidates for nomination as to insure their support at the following election, when nominations have been made in the primary.

Those who favor a nominating convention argue that if candidates for the various offices, from United States senator down, are selected by delegates regularly chosen, the danger of subsequent repudiation will at least be lessened. This because the choice of delegates from every district in the state will be likely to reflect the opinions of the people at large, and therefore the discouraging contests if these nominations are confirmed by the voters in the primaries.

Some members are said to be in favor of the idea and the fact that the candidates of several aspirants or possible aspirants for gubernatorial honors already have been announced in an informal way is being used as an argument for such a convention. If only to reduce the number who will enter the race at the primaries.

[SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.]
Pittsburg, Pa., June 30.—Forbes
Field, the new park of the Pittsburg team of the National league, was formally dedicated today with appropriate ceremonies. The new park and stands comprise what is probably the finest baseball plant in the country.
The park represents an outlay of nearly one million dollars.

The grandstand of reinforced concrete is nearly 300 feet long, 95 feet deep and has three tiers of seats. Elevators have been installed to carry patrons to the second and third tiers, including boxes there are more than 7,000 reserved seats in the upper tiers.
On the main floor are accommodations for 13,000 persons. The main bleachers hold 8,000 and the center field stand 2,000 more, giving a total seating capacity of over 20,000.

When the gates to Forbes Field were thrown open at noon today
there was a riot among fully five thousand men and boys to gain entrance. Many of them were thrown to the ground and injured.

READY FOR MATCH

YALE AND HARVARD BOAT RACES
OCCUR TOMORROW.

HARVARD CREW IS FAVORITE

But Yale Crews Have Been More Successful Than Harvard
Many Times.

[SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.]
New London, Conn., June 30.—All arrangements for the Yale-Harvard boat races, which will be rowed on the Thames tomorrow, have been completed. The four-oared race will be rowed at 10:30 o'clock from the head of the four-mile course downstream to the navy yard. The freshman race will be rowed immediately after the finish of the four-oared race, starting at the navy yard and finishing at the bridge. The race between the university crews will start at six o'clock at the bridge and will finish four miles upstream.

In New London today, and visible signs are abundant that the great aquatic event is near at hand.
The entire city has donned holiday attire, and hotels, boarding-houses and private homes are filling with visitors.
Tomorrow morning special trains,
boats, trolley cars and automobiles
will bring an army of sightseers from New York, New Haven, Boston and many intermediate points.

Everyone is looking forward to a grand contest in the varsity race.
From the time trials over the four-mile course it appears as if the old rivals were well matched this year.
Both elicits have negotiated the four-mile course in 20 minutes and 55 seconds, and the two trials were made under identically similar conditions.

Obviously the Yale crew is a big favorite for the annual race, as is natural enough in view of the scarcity of Harvard victories on the water for the last twenty or twenty-five years;
and Yale is generally a favorite on general principles more than on any specific consideration of the crews.

The victory Harvard gained by her trophy over Yale last year has been almost completely forgotten.
Probably if it were not for the fact that Harvard moved to be so far superior to Yale last year, and that the Harvard shell contains most of the men who made up last year's crew, the Yale varsity would be a decided favorite.

From all appearances the two crews seem to be more evenly matched this year than in usually the case. On to date neither has shown any marked superiority over the other. Today the reports from Red Top and from Gale's Ferry are to the effect that both crews are in the best of physical condition.

Record of the Races
For fifty-seven years, with occasional intervals, the crews of Yale and Harvard have battled, the rival blue and crimson having been borne during all those years by four, six and eight-oared crews. The first race between crews of the two universities took place on Lake Winnepesaukee in 1852.
No record of the event was kept save
the fact that Harvard was the winner,
and then there was a lapse of three years until they met again, this time on the Connecticut river, at Springfield. That race was also won by Harvard in 22:00. In 1859 the racing ground shifted to Lake Quin-squamont, where it remained for eight years, Harvard winning five of the thirteen races. The contest took place on Lake Saltwater in 1870, and was another Harvard victory. Since 1878 the crews have been rowing at New London.

In the forty-two races that have been rowed, since the initial contest in 1852, four universities now separate the contending universities, Yale having won twenty-three races and Harvard nineteen.

Early in the history of the event it was rowed over a two-mile course,
which was increased to three miles in 1855. Again the distance was increased in 1870, this time to four miles, which has been the length of the varsity races ever since. Yale holds the record for this distance, having covered the course in 1888 in 20 minutes, 10 seconds. Last year the race was won by Harvard in 24 minutes, 10 seconds.

RAID HOUSE; 112 WOMEN ARRESTED

RIOT FOLLOWS SUFFRAGETTES' ATTEMPT TO SEE PREMIER ASQUITH.

SLAP FACES OF POLICEMEN

Exciting Scenes Attend Thirteenth Effort of London's Militant Females to Enter the House of Commons—Leaders Go to Jail.

London, June 30.—Scores of police last night, following a riot of suffragettes who made their thirteenth raid on the house of commons in an attempt to see Premier Asquith, arrested 112 of the women and placed them in jail to await trial.

The plan of campaign followed the lines previously employed by the suffragettes. The women's parliament assembled in Caxton hall at eight o'clock in the evening and sent a deputation, headed by Mrs. Pankhurst, to endeavor to see the prime minister, who had previously decided not to receive the deputation.

Enormous Crowd Sees Fun. Enormous crowds of onlookers assembled in the vicinity of parliament hours before the time set for the raid upon the house, around which several thousand police had taken up strategic positions. The first noteworthy incident was the arrest, after a great deal of trouble, of a buxom equestrian suffragette, who tried to penetrate the police cordon to take a message to the premier. Next appeared the deputation under command of Mrs. Pankhurst, and it was received by the crowd with wild cheers. Escorted by the police, the deputation arrived at the St. Stephen's entrance to parliament, where it was met by Chief Inspector Scantlebury, who handed Mrs. Pankhurst a letter from the premier, regretting his inability to receive the deputation.

Angrily throwing the letter on the ground, Mrs. Pankhurst exclaimed: "I stand on my rights as the king's subject to enter the house of commons," and she endeavored to force an entrance.

Slaps an Inspector. The police tried to induce the women to disperse quietly and then began to take the members of the deputation by the arms to lead them away. To the surprise of the spectators, who were massed around the entrance, Mrs. Pankhurst slapped Inspector Jarvis in the face, knocking his cap in the mud. There were cries of "shame," and several of the spectators told the suffragette leader that she had no provocation to do such a thing.

A moment later, another member of the deputation, Mrs. Saul Solomon, knocked off the inspector's cap a second time, while others made determined attempts to rush the cordon of police. Eventually, the entire deputation was arrested.

Try Underground Passage. By this time, a second deputation had left Caxton hall, accompanied by some hundreds of suffragettes and others, and an attempt was made to reach the house of commons through the underground passage leading from Westminster bridge.

This, too, was unsuccessful, but for two hours the whole district was in a state of uproar, the police dispersing the crowds and arresting women by the wholesale. The windows of many of the government buildings were smashed with stones wrapped in paper.

Among the women arrested were Mrs. Pankhurst, Mrs. Solomon, Hon. Mrs. Haverfield, daughter of Lord Abinger; Miss Margesson, daughter of Lady Margesson; Miss Maud Jochin, niece of the violinist, and many other prominent suffragists.

SLAYS TWO AND STEALS WIFE. Iowa Man Kills Woman's Parents and Forces Her to Flee.

Des Moines, Ia., June 30.—Calvin Littlepage, a farmer living near Valley Junction, a suburb of Des Moines, shot and killed Elmer Jamieson and Mrs. Jamieson, both parents of his divorced wife, and then forced her and his infant babe to enter a buggy which was waiting and flee with him.

The murderer drove toward Adel in a blinding rain and hail storm but was soon pursued by a posse from Des Moines. Farmers along the highway with shotguns joined in the chase attracted by the pitiful screams of the woman.

Mrs. Littlepage escaped from her husband when he was hard pressed by the posse but he managed to get away. Ben Littlepage, a brother who works on a farm near the butcher place, told the officers this morning that the murderer had called on him after midnight and had told him he would return to kill his wife and babe. He then threatened his brother if he dared tell the officers where he was and disappeared in the darkness.

New York Bars Noise. New York, June 30.—The anti-noise ordinance, which has been sleeping in the board of alderman since last March, was passed by the board, if enforced it will stop the ringing of bells, the tooting of whistles and the wailing of the city's hucksters.

Woman Leaps From Boat. New York, June 30.—An unidentified woman jumped into the Hudson river from a window of a Pennsylvania railroad ferryboat, when the boat was in midstream, and was drowned. She appeared to be about 40 years old, and well dressed.

WRIGHT IN NEW AIRSHIP MAKES FIRST TRIAL FLIGHT

Falls Three Times But Succeeds in Fourth—Circles the Fort Myer Aerodrome.

Washington, June 30.—Orville Wright, following three unsuccessful attempts, last evening by gaining perseverance ascended in the new aeroplane and circled the Fort Myer aerodrome.

Lack of power, due to a loose spark control, was finally determined upon by the two Wrights as the cause for the refusal of the machine to fly for more than a few hundred feet beyond the end of the starting rail. Their persistency in trying, time after time, to make the machine behave properly won the approval of the large crowd that had gathered in anticipation of a flight.

When the final trial was started the machine rose to a height of about 15 or 20 feet. Shortly after it ascended from the ground it showed signs of losing headway, but Orville kept on around the field, remaining in the air about fifty seconds and landing almost immediately in front of the starting track.

The difficulties which attended under ideal weather conditions the first trials of the flying machine, which is a new one constructed to replace the one smashed by the accident at Fort Myer last September, is a vindication of the Wrights in their refusal to make a flight the day before an adverse wind.

"A flying machine is like a horse," was the way Wilbur put it afterwards. "If it's now, you have to get used to it before it will go just as you want it to. You have to learn its peculiarities. I am glad we learned what the trouble is and after a few more trials you will see some fun."

Bishop Milton Wright, father of the two aviators, together with their brother, Reuchlin, arrived at Fort Myer in time to see the tests. They took a seat at the aeroplane shed and watched the proceedings with great interest. The bishop appeared to be very proud of his sons and evidenced great familiarity with the work of other aviators as well as that of his own boys. He spoke of the care which they always exercise in all of their experiments.

Today the brothers will remove the obstacle encountered yesterday and, if good weather conditions obtain, they will make further preliminary trials.

Reflection. The solitary side of our nature demands leisure for reflection upon subjects on which the dash and whirl of daily business, so long as its clouds rise thick about us, forbid the intellect to fasten itself.—Froude.

German Proverb. Say not all thou knowest, but be true all thou sayest.

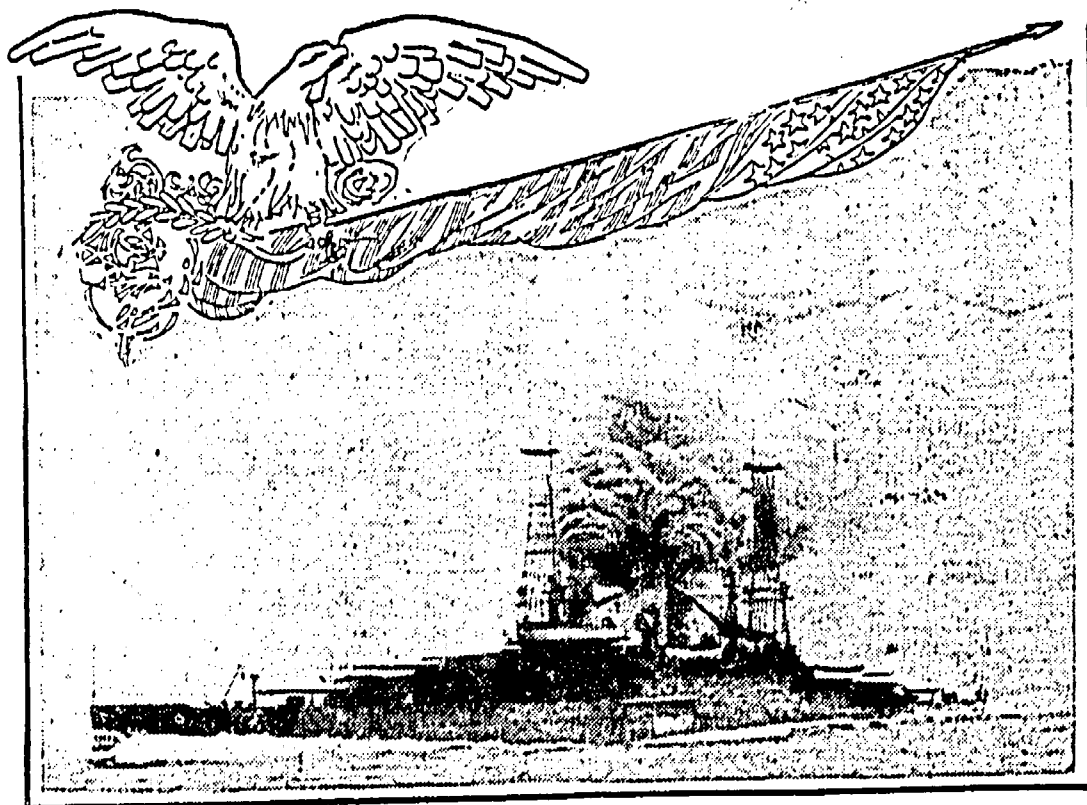

What Girl's Name?

Not as Lucky as He Might. The man who doesn't care enough for his wife to think it necessary to have an excuse when he stays out late at night may be envied by his friends, but he is really to be pitied.

What Musical Instrument?

NEW ADDITION TO U. S. NAVY. Battleship Michigan as she appeared plowing through the water on her trial cruise.

Philadelphia.—The battleship Michigan, now in dry dock for some repairs, will be ready for her endurance trial within a few days. It is confidently predicted that the Michigan will demonstrate then that she is one of the fastest of the modern fighters. When commissioned the new battleship will be commanded by Captain Nathaniel R. Usher, commanding officer; Lieutenant Commander B. F. Sellers, Lieutenant Commander Nathan Twining and Lieutenant Commander R. B. Hasbrouck.

The Michigan is of 16,000 tons displacement and 450 feet long. Her main battery consists of eight 12-inch guns and she has a crew of 51 officers and 758 men.

Have You Noticed the Way Our Want Ad Columns Are Arranged?

We have prepared special headings for the different lines of business so as to center attention to them and give our advertisers the best opportunity for results.

These Want Ads have proven great little business builders to those who patronize them and are one of the features that help to prove the statement, "It pays to advertise." People from all parts of the city and county, and even in neighboring counties, are reading them every night, and hundreds of replies are made each month. Fifty sales from one want ad is a record of this month, and each one of these sales may mean a steady patron.

In Your Particular Line

there are hundreds of people who may call on you if you would merely suggest your line to them. The heading will attract to your ad, and is going to be a permanent feature of these columns. A continuous reminder of you and your business here is sure to result in patronage.

Try out a small campaign and prove to yourself that it pays to advertise. Phone in an order for 3 or more lines for 6 months, or phone our advertising department for suggestions for increasing your business. It tackles just such problems as yours every day. Every advertiser in our columns had to be shown in his own way, in his particular line that "It pays to advertise." He probably started out with a small appropriation and but little faith in advertising, but results were forthcoming and his business grew.

It Takes Nerve to Advertise

but it takes nerve to do anything. Mr. Booth said "It took a brave man to eat the first oyster." It took a brave man to cross the Atlantic in the time of Columbus. It takes a brave man to build a big business. Any man can get into the stream and float with it, but to make things float your way requires work and courage and risk. You are not lacking in these qualifications. It's merely a question of adapting advertising to your business. You don't know how to do it? You are not expected to. You have never really considered. We have, and we are making successes every month.

We ought to get together; we are natural partners. 77-2 rings. Let's talk it over

STATE CONVENTION
Now comes the cry, and from the Milwaukee Free Press, that the republicans should hold a state convention next year to nominate their state ticket. The reputation of the primary law by the Senators and members of the Assembly who prolonged the election of a United States Senator to further the political ambitions of one faction at the expense of the will of the people, has opened the eyes of even the reformers to the uselessness of the law. What is the use of a primary law if it can be repudiated when it does not please? This is the question in a nut shell. Why spend the money in holding a primary in September, and then have the legislature in January repudiate its action? The primary as voting the will of the people was good campaign tactic, but when it came to actual practice it was found not to be what the politicians who framed it wanted. Then they repudiated it. So the old convention idea is to be talked of again and the next thing you know a legislature with some sense will be elected that will take the law off the statutes entirely.

TAKE YOUR WIFE'S ADVICE.
If you contemplate some important step without having consulted your wife—don't!
Her intuitive insight may be worth more than your deliberate reasoning. Some one has said:
"When a man has tolled step by step up a flight of stairs he will be sure to find a woman at the top, but she will not be able to tell how she got there."
A man comes up to a conclusion by the slow steps of deliberate logic. Instinctively the woman reaches it by a single bound.
Especially is the normal, average woman quick to see the right or wrong involved in a proposition. She jumps over subtle distinctions and evasive phrasings and lands on the firm ground of eternal righteousness.
Ethically every woman is a seer. And especially clear are the eyes of a wife in any matter involving the welfare or the good name of her family.
Make your wife a close confidant in all things, especially if she is a woman of character and not one of the social butterflies whose chief desire is to show herself.
Your wife's counsel may sometimes seem to be wrong, but events are apt to justify it.
There was Victoria Colona, a strong character of history. Her husband was a loyal friend of the great Charles V. At one time the former was offered the crown of Naples if he would join the league against Charles. Though strongly tempted, he asked his wife's advice, and she bade him spurn the proposal.
Not every wife would have refused to be queen.
But most wives would.
Because the project meant base betrayal and treachery, and the true heart of a woman is turned against such baseness.
You should seek your wife's advice because she is your best friend and a competent and honest counselor.
Take no important step of any sort without a conference with her. She will help to clear away difficulties and may be able to suggest ways and means that might not occur to you.
"Two heads are better than one," especially if one is a woman's head.

When a Hresome Chinese statesman bore his queen or overlord, he receives a little package that contains a yellow cord; and the statesman realizes that it is no use to him, so he hangs himself in silence to the nearest acyamore. Let us borrow from the wisdom of the rulers of Cathay! Let us put this grand old custom into common use today! Let the President distribute samples of the suffragette string, to the statesmen who have bored us since the early days of spring, with their figures and statistics, and their buncos and hot air, and their midst oratory which won't lead us anywhere. We might all, perhaps, be rescued, from an ordeal that is abhorred, if Big Bill would send the talkers twenty feet of yellow cord!

THE BALOONS
The common council had a heated session last evening over the granting of balloon licenses to the fifty-four applicants. Out of this number two of the fifty-four failed to comply with the law, one due to death of the original applicant, the other through neglect to hand in his five-hundred-dollar fee. Seven others were questioned and it is probable that as a result, despite the council's vote of six to three that they be granted, that Mayor or Carle will not sign their licenses. In order to give these seven the right to sell liquor the council, should the Mayor refuse to sign their applications, would have to pass them over his veto by a two-thirds vote. If the three aldermen who voted against their being granted stick out for what they consider right and are reinforced by Alderman Evans, who was absent last evening, they will be turned down. The outcome will be watched with interest. The real deliberations of the council were held behind closed doors, but enough leaked through to show that they had a lively time deciding what to do and what not to do.

If the three aldermen who voted against their being granted stick out for what they consider right and are reinforced by Alderman Evans, who was absent last evening, they will be turned down. The outcome will be watched with interest. The real deliberations of the council were held behind closed doors, but enough leaked through to show that they had a lively time deciding what to do and what not to do.

THE BALOONS
The common council had a heated session last evening over the granting of balloon licenses to the fifty-four applicants. Out of this number two of the fifty-four failed to comply with the law, one due to death of the original applicant, the other through neglect to hand in his five-hundred-dollar fee. Seven others were questioned and it is probable that as a result, despite the council's vote of six to three that they be granted, that Mayor or Carle will not sign their licenses. In order to give these seven the right to sell liquor the council, should the Mayor refuse to sign their applications, would have to pass them over his veto by a two-thirds vote. ## NEW STATE LAWS FOR GUIDANCE OF DAIRYMEN

Cream Separators Must Not Be Left In Barns and Must Be Washed Daily Under a Heavy Penalty.
Assistant Dairy and Food Commissioner H. C. Larson of Madison was here today in conference with H. G. Shurtliff of the Shurtliff Co., relative to the new dairy laws for the guidance of butter makers, the owners of creameries, and the dairymen. As a result of this conference, Mr. Shurtliff is preparing to send a copy of the laws and a circular letter to 500 farmers in this vicinity.

The laws set up a standard as to what shall constitute clean and sanitary milk and provide for fines ranging from $25 to $100 and imprisonment for both the buttermaker who manufactures a finished product that is poor in quality and the dairymen or farmer whose neglect and carelessness is responsible for the impurity of the raw product.

"Cream separators must be removed from the barns," said Mr. Larson in commenting on some of the more stringent laws which the laws are designed to correct. Milk exposed to the foul or noxious air or gases that accumulate in barns occupied by animals is filthy and unfit for use and the same is true of the manufactured product. The separators and utensils must be washed every day or oftener not once a week, as the agents for these machines glibly pronounced quite sufficient.

"The economy man is made just as responsible for what he receives and manufactures into butter as the farmer and he will have to make it his business to see that what he receives is pure and wholesome. For there are fifty times as many chances for him to buy himself liable as for any individual farmer. The farmer whose milk is rejected at one creamery will now have to find it a hard proposition to sell elsewhere."

"Most people want to do right, but a large percentage are as careless as they dare be. It is not our business primarily to make trouble but we are charged by the state to enforce laws which ought to be enforced. Fifty-six per cent of the butter made in the United States scores less than 99 out of 100 points, which means that it is unclean and has a tainted flavor and that it contains filth and germs deleterious to human health."

LARGE ATTENDANCE AT GOLF CLUB HOP

Perfect Evening Was Thoroughly Enjoyed—Qualifying Round for Wilson Lane Trophy.

There was a goodly number of entries in the qualifying round for the Wilson Lane cup handicap at the Country club yesterday. The first flight will take place either on Friday or next Monday or Tuesday.

About thirty partook of the club night supper and there was an attendance of nearly seventy at the fifth of the series of weekly dancing parties. Carter & Menzies' orchestra furnished a splendid program.

The out-of-town visitors included: Frederic Harold Reed of Sioux Falls, S. D., who is a guest at the home of W. H. Greenman; Miss Irma Zickler of Minneapolis; and H. Palmer Subin of Denver, who is spending a vacation at the home of his grandmother, Mrs. Edna Palmer.

The next flight will be held Monday evening, instead of Tuesday.

WHITEHEAD IS NAMED ONE OF COMMISSION

Wisconsin It To Take Part In Celebrating the Victory Of Commodore Perry.

Gov. Davidson has named a committee for the centennial celebration of the notable victory of Commodore Oliver Perry over the British in 1812 as follows: General Arthur MacArthur of Milwaukee; Senator John M. Whitehead of Janesville; Senator A. W. Sanborn of Ashland; Assemblyman O. A. Buslet of Waupun. The celebration of this famous naval victory is to be held at Put-in-Bay Island, Ohio, in 1913 and it is the purpose of the promoters to enlist the co-operation of all the states bordering on the great lakes.

VAUDEVILLE ACTS BOOKED FOR FIFTH

Tasma Troupe of Aerial Artists, Leon & Leon Big Gymnastic Act, and Four Others Secured.
While in Chicago yesterday, Fred L. Clemens and Clarence Burdick booked the Tasma troupe of aerial artists (formerly the Curzon sisters with the Barnum & Bailey circus), a trick bicycle act, Leon & Leon, gymnasts, a troupe of aerial dogs, a troupe of comedy acrobats, and a flying trapeze act. The Tasma troupe will perform at a height of 50 feet and two telephone poles will have to be put up to accommodate them. The act is usually sold for $350, but a chance opportunity made it possible for the local committee to secure much more favorable terms. The attractions were all furnished by Fred Burdick, who has a $10,000 contract to put on Pittsburg's celebration this year.

BRIEF LOCAL NEWS.

Automobile Party: A Wausau party consisting of Mr. and Mrs. Walter Alexander, Mr. and Mrs. H. L. Johnson, Miss Stowbridge, and John Stron arrived here in a big touring car last evening and registered at the Grand hotel. They left this morning for Milwaukee, via Delavan and Geneva lakes.

For Drunkenness: James Hampton pleaded guilty to a charge of drunkenness in municipal court this morning and paid a fine and costs of $4.10. William Lennon went to the county jail for five days for a similar offense.

Mayor of Elgin's Trip: Mayor Albert Fernman of Elgin, Ill., expects to make a trip from Janesville to Lake Koshkonong on the Rock river in the near future. The trip will be made aboard a skiff and Mike Welch of this city will accompany him.

Judge Coming Tomorrow: Judge Grinn was here last yesterday afternoon and heard testimony in the divorce action of Mary Lunke vs. Albert Lunke, and the application of the plaintiff in the action of May W. Behrmet vs. the C. M. & St. P. Ry. Co., et al, to enlarge the time to serve a bill of exceptions. The judge will be here again at 1:30 tomorrow afternoon and that will be his last appearance at the court house until he has returned from his month's vacation in the west.

Rent Summer Cottage: The Janesville Outing Club, composed of young business men, has rented a cottage at Lake Koshkonong for the coming year and will open their clubhouse for the months of July, August and September early in next month. While the regular monthly outings will be continued the clubhouse will be kept open at all times for the use of the members.

RELIEF CORPS SEEKS NEW HEADQUARTERS

Present Hall Is Becoming Rather Small Owing to Increased Membership of Organization.

Prosperous conditions and a rapid increase in the membership are filling the ranks of the Woman's Relief Corps so that their present quarters have become somewhat crowded and small for their needs and uses. Accordingly, the order has been decided to leave the meeting hall in the Carlo block and seek larger quarters.

At their regular meeting held yesterday a program of unusual interest was presented. A number of ladies were present who attended the state convention at Eau Claire and an interesting report of this gathering was given by Mrs. Florence Watson, who was sent as a delegate. Mrs. Bear and Mrs. Glenn, who went from the convention to visit at Waupun, gave very interesting facts regarding the home. Mrs. Glenn read an article by Henry Ward Beecher on "Patriotism," and Mrs. Potter, a poem entitled "Our Flag." An excellent reading was Mrs. Fay's contribution to the program.

OBITUARY.

Forty Years Ago

Janesville Daily Gazette, June 30, 1869.—(Big Team.)—Last evening an individual arrived in the city with a team of eight dogs drawing a four-wheeled vehicle. They made a pilgrimage of some twenty miles yesterday. Where they came from and whether they go we did not learn.

Last Evening.—The festival at the rink by the M. E. Church was a success with the financial result of $170. Moses Rock presided over by the old patriarch, flowed a continuous stream of lemonade which those who drank, voted a decided improvement on the beverage of the old Israelites. The strawberries and cream were excellent and the bouquets were as beautiful as June roses could make. The

The Evening Chit-Chat

By RUTH CAMERON

THE way to opportunity is often a crooked lane rather than a broad straight ahead road.

A young girl came to me several months ago grieving because she had been obliged by circumstances to give up a position that she had been filling very successfully.

"Of course I know that in some ways it is not just the work I ought to do," she said, "but on the whole I don't believe I shall ever find anything so satisfactory again."

I met her last week. She was radiantly happy. "I have found my niche," she said. "It is just the work I was made to do. And just think, Miss Cameron, I should never have found it if I had not had to give up the other. Isn't it queer?"

Queer, yes, but only as life itself is queer.

There comes a time in the lives of a good many of us when we feel as if the little narrow byway of duty or circumstance we are following is unwillingly leading us to a blank wall of failure.

And maybe all the time just around the next corner—the very corner that we dread most of all to turn—opportunity, that beautiful golden vista, opens out.

Many a life has been spoiled because a man or woman would not turn some corner, balked at the fear of change and stood still and never found the opportunity that waited.

With some people the conviction that they are not doing just the right work is the corner. They know that there is something better for them and yet they do not quite have the courage to go and find it.

With others the corner is the realization that the friendships or the love they are content with are not the highest that they are capable of. And yet they have not the fortitude to give up the half happiness of the present for the complete happiness of the future.

The greatest good fortune that could come to many people would be an earthquake of circumstance that would wrench the half good from them and leave room for the full good.

Perhaps someone who reads is even now living under the confusion of such an earthquake and feels that his world is shattered and his happiness ruined.

Remember that it may be but the preparation for a finer world and a greater happiness.

"Heartily know
When half Gods go
The Gods arrive."
